This toolkit will show you how to use simple campaign ideas to support and create activities around the 2nd anniversary of the SDGs - 25 September 2017. We the People - take Action for the SDGs seeks to create awareness and promote the SDGs among citizens AND to help you to hold our governments accountable. These ideas are flexible, can be used in full or in parts, and can be adapted to your specific plans.
The Context

Increasing conflict and inequality, unprecedented levels of migration and displacement and the devastating effects of climate change are some of the issues that define our age.

Extremism and disenfranchisement fuel reactive political movements with chaotic and dangerous outcomes.

These are issues that go beyond country borders and require concerted efforts at regional and global level.

On 25 September 2015, world leaders agreed to a definitive plan for the planet and the people on it by adopting 17 Sustainable Development Goals.

The Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) are a universal call to action to end poverty, protect the planet and ensure that all people enjoy peace and prosperity.

!UN SDGs

These 17 Goals were partially built on the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs), while including new areas such as climate change, inequality, sustainable consumption and production, peace and justice, among other priorities. The SDGs apply to all countries and they are highly interconnected – often the key to success on one will involve tackling issues more commonly associated with another.

193 governments signed up - if they stick to the plan the results will be extraordinary.

It has already been two years. Are we on track? Are world leaders sticking to the pledge?

For the goals to be reached, everyone needs to do their part: governments, the private sector, civil society and people like you and us.
Why Global SDG Actions?

After the High Level Political Forum for Sustainable Development at the UN Headquarters in New York, in July 2017, the focus must be on the People and on taking action.

We the people hold governments accountable for their promises in order to achieve the SDGs by 2030.

We the people own the SDGs and take actions for their implementation.

We need to create space for people of all ages and from different cultural backgrounds to sit at the table with decision makers, both literally and figuratively.

We need to create new tools for public engagement and to inspire actions that people can take to make the SDGs a reality.

We also need to celebrate the actions that are already happening and inspire citizens and organisations to join the movement.

An enabling environment for civil society to function and the freedom to undertake a critical analysis of government policies are preconditions for effective CSO engagement on the SDGs.
Campaign:
We the People – take Actions for the SDGs

On the occasion of the second anniversary of the SDGs on 25 September 2017, we are calling for actions across the world to tell people about the goals and tell our leaders how they are performing.

The UN SDG Action Campaign, the World We Want, the Global Call to Action Against Poverty (GCAP) and Action for Sustainable Development have created a global campaign to create awareness and promote the SDGs among citizens.

We are joining forces with civil society, volunteers, and citizens in 100 different countries to send a strong signal to leaders about what needs to be done two years after the approval of the goals.

To do what?

1) Awareness: increase ownership of the SDGs among citizens and all stakeholders, especially in the communities that are left behind.

2) Accountability: empower citizens, especially those from the most disadvantaged communities to be able to hold their governments to account.

3) Action: take stock of the data collected/produced so far, generate citizens’ actions to present public statements and calls for action from their public representatives on the SDGs.

YOU own the SDGs. Your actions - both big and small can help.
Turning the plan into action & promises into reality.

Each year we want to celebrate and recall the official day when the SDGs were adopted – September 25th - and create awareness, accountability and action among people on the progress of the SDGs.

This year, the Day of Action coincides with the closing day of 72nd Session of the UN General Assembly (UNGA 72) and provides an opportunity for local people - YOU! - to react to the statements and speeches given by your representatives and contrast them with local realities.
What kind of Actions?

Together we will mobilise thousands of citizens, institutions and organisations across the globe to raise our voices and tell world leaders how we are progressing on the achievement of the SDGs through the MY World 2030 Survey and statements from civil society.

We want to celebrate what has been done already to implement the SDGs and ask governments to strive for more action through a series of physical and virtually connected events all over the world.

1. Tell leaders how we are doing through the MY World 2030 survey

Tell your leaders how we are doing and encourage your community to make your voice heard:

MY World 2030 is a global citizen survey led by the United Nations and partners to capture public awareness and perceptions about the Sustainable Development Goals. The results are used to build dialogue between governments and citizens.

As a first and simple action please take the survey here: https://myworld2030.org/

Civil Society Statement & Press Release

You know best what’s happening in your communities. What is the position after 2 years?

You will find a template for a press release in the materials and inputs for the statement as part of our media and communications pack here.

Ideas for Public Statements from Civil Society:

Prepare an evaluation of the government’s efforts/non-efforts in your country or region.

1. Issue a public statement with a political message for the public and decision makers, including a narrative on how we are doing on Sustainable Development and the SDGs.
2. Tell politicians what is important for people in your country - include results from data.myworld2015.org
3. Write an article/blog setting out priorities to hold the government to account for what they have done or not done to achieve the SDGs and to ensure that nobody is left behind.
4. Include key asks for better implementation with short and clear messages.
5. Organise TV debates
Example of Messages for the Statement

How do the SDGs affect you? Has your life changed? What do you want to happen in your community? What do you want to say to your leaders? Are they being accountable to their promises? What should happen next?

Some key messages include:

- Given the context of obscene inequalities in today’s world, we declare that we will fight inequalities with a focus on gender inequalities and socially excluded people, including women, indigenous communities, Dalits, people living in conflict areas, children, aging people, communities affected by climate change, climate and other migrants and persons with disabilities. What is the situation of inequality in your country?

- We will make sure that "No One Left Behind" becomes a reality. What are the left behind groups in your country? How can we include them?

- The SDGs go far beyond the MDGs and offer the hope of a future where people live in harmony on a safe, sustainable planet. They include goals on inequalities, peace, decent work, justice and transparency while also vowing to end violence against women and children, human trafficking and environmental destruction and dangerous climate change. What are you doing to meet these goals?

- We need to continue to challenge the structural and root causes of inequalities and poverty. There needs to be a critical assessment of any actors that exacerbate inequalities, including gender inequality, poverty and climate change. We will hold all actors to account - including governments, private sector and international institutions, including the UN. To achieve the SDGs, policies that promote equality such as tax justice, decent work, redistributive measures, social protection and gender equality are crucial.

- We the People will work at local, national, regional and global levels to monitor the implementation of the SDGs in order to ensure that countries achieve the goals and meet and exceed the targets for all groups. [Explain what you are doing].

- We will work to transform unjust and impoverishing aspects of the global economic and financial architecture as well as the root causes of violent conflicts.

- We will work to ensure that civil society and people’s voices are not relegated to the margins. People’s voices should be incorporated into SDG implementation and decision-making at all levels. Campaigners should feel safe to mobilize constituents for greater accountability, gender justice and climate action. We will stand up for meaningful civil society participation in the SDGs. We the People are connecting with millions of citizens around the world to ensure that their demands for justice are heard.

Please use the #Act4SDGs Campaign Reporting Template to tell us everything about your mobilization efforts in support of the #Act4SDGs campaign.

STOP POVERTY – A global campaign

Stop Poverty is a global campaign organised by ATD Fourth World to help achieve the SDG1. Negative stories and images of poverty and injustice can lead to a sense of powerlessness. Our campaign’s vision is that extreme poverty is not inevitable and that the violence it represents must be eliminated by sharing stories of change and launching a Call to Action.

25 September - Leave No One Behind. Citizens, including people living in poverty, can unite to oppose poverty, changing the world for the better. For this reason ATD Fourth World, alongside partner organizations such as the International Trade Union Confederation (ITUC) and Social Watch, mobilised with people living in poverty to assess the Millennium Development Goals. Together, they created the concept of ‘Leaving No One Behind’, which is now a cornerstone of the Sustainable Development Goals, especially SDG1. On 25 September, ATD Fourth World will spread the story of 'Leaving No One Behind' and ask governments to measure poverty differently.

From 25 September to 17 October the story of ‘Leaving No One Behind’ and its link to the SDG’s will be shared on social media to call out to governments. This will culminate on 17 October (World UN International Day for the Eradication of Poverty) to call out to all citizens. 17 October actions: 1. Events in more than a 100 countries on 17 October to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the World UN International Day. 2. A Thunderclap to enable people to post on social media around the day. 3. A Web Event on the Stop Poverty website with videos of 17 October.

Many of the photos and background information included in this toolkit are drawn from the Action/2015 campaign. Action/2015 was a campaign to mobilise citizens around the world in joint engagement to maintain pressure on governments to sign the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in September 2015. Since that time many of the national partners of Action/2015 have continued to be active in their countries through the Action for Sustainable Development platform.
