Agenda 2030 feminista:

Without the Sexual and Reproductive Rights, without the Human Rights of Women and without Feminism, it will not be possible to reach the new 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development

In September 2015 the Agenda 2030 of Sustainable Development was approved by the General Assembly of the United Nations through which the new development framework, in force until the year 2030, is established.

Agenda 2030 establishes 17 Sustainable Development Goals, 169 goals and a list of indicators that make up the roadmap that will guide the policies in the coming years.

The women's and feminist movement working for the local and global implementation of The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development aims to incorporate a feminist and human rights perspective in Agenda 2030 to guarantee the human rights of women.

The result of these strategies is the project: Agenda 2030 feminista

About the 2030 feminist agenda!

The Feminist Agenda 2030 wants to be a meeting place for entities, groups, networks and social movements sharing the defense of Sexual and Reproductive Rights, Human Rights of Women and Feminism as a priority within our agendas of action and advocacy every day. Therefore the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda incorporates a feminist and human rights perspective, in order to guarantee the human rights of women and sexual and reproductive rights.

Why a feminist Agenda 2030?

The 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda establishes a specific SDG for gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls (SDG 5) and gender goals in other SDG but without explicit recognition of women's human rights. The political declaration does recognize the importance of gender mainstreaming, the Beijing Platform for Action and the Program of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development as foundational elements.

However, the sexual rights of women and other groups are not recognized, Reproductive rights are but in a limited way. Also, their sexual and international division of labor is collected in a very weak way. And the idea of full confidence in economic growth as a way to achieve development raises serious doubts from feminism.

In addition, from feminism, we understand and visualize the obvious link between each SDG, the human rights of women and sexual and reproductive rights. Yet, this link is not present in the 17 official SDG and, therefore, there is a risk that the Agenda 2030 will be, from the beginning, "leaving many people behind".

If we want to make structural changes that contribute to social transformation it is crucial to visualize and work from this link.
