Note by the Secretariat

Summary

The present note reflects the results, including decisions taken, of the sixty-fourth and sixty-fifth sessions of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, held in Geneva from 4 to 22 July and from 24 October to 18 November 2016, respectively. Information on the sixty-third session, held in Geneva from 15 February to 4 March 2016, can be found in the report of the Committee to the General Assembly (A/71/38, part III).
I. Introduction

1. In its resolution 47/94, the General Assembly recommended that the sessions of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women should be scheduled, whenever possible, to allow for the timely transmission of the results of those sessions for information to the Commission on the Status of Women.

2. The Committee held its sixty-fourth and sixty-fifth sessions from 4 to 22 July and from 24 October to 18 November 2016, respectively. At its sixty-fourth session, the Committee sent a letter to the United Nations Entity for Gender Equality and the Empowerment of Women (UN-Women) in which it reiterated its commitment to engaging in the reporting process for proposed Sustainable Development Goal indicator 5.1.1 (“Whether or not legal frameworks are in place to promote, enforce and monitor equality and non-discrimination on the basis of sex”) and indicated its support for the proposal that the substantive provisions of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women serve as the basis for the identification of those legal frameworks. The Committee also reviewed a statement on addressing gender dimensions in large-scale movements of refugees and migrants, which was subsequently adopted jointly with the Committee on the Protection of the Rights of All Migrant Workers and Members of Their Families, the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR) and UN-Women, and held a side event together with the Committee on Migrant Workers on promoting and protecting women migrant workers’ labour and human rights through the Convention, organized by OHCHR and UN-Women.

3. At its sixty-fifth session, the Committee met the Special Rapporteur on violence against women, its causes and consequences, Dubravka Šimonović, to discuss strengthened cooperation, especially in relation to updating its general recommendation No. 19 (1992) on violence against women. The Committee welcomed the development of a draft list of questions prepared by UN-Women, the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development Social Institutions and Gender Index and the World Bank’s Women, Business and the Law database for proposed Sustainable Development Goal indicator 5.1.1 and decided to test the questions by integrating them into its lists of issues and questions and constructive dialogues with States parties, beginning in 2017. It also decided not to accept any new requests from States parties to be considered under the simplified reporting procedure until it had assessed the effectiveness of the procedure.

4. The Committee continued to engage with partners. Directly following the sixty-third session, the Chair of the Committee, Yoko Hayashi, delivered a statement to the Commission on the Status of Women at its sixtieth session, in New York. Before the sixty-fifth session, on 10 October 2016, the Chair presented the report of the Committee on its sixty-first, sixty-second and sixty-third sessions (A/71/38) to the Third Committee of the General Assembly in New York.

5. At its sixty-fourth session, the Committee received a briefing from Amnesty International on the organization’s new sex workers policy, which advocated the decriminalization of women in prostitution.

6. At its sixty-fifth session, the Committee heard a briefing via videoconference from a representative of the UN-Women Training Centre in Santo Domingo on the new online training tool on the Convention developed by UN-Women. It also received a briefing via videoconference from the Chief of the Statistical Services Branch of the Statistics Division of the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat on the development of indicators for monitoring the Sustainable Development Goals, in particular indicator 5.1.1. The Committee also privately met the President of the Inter-Parliamentary Union (IPU) and parliamentarian from Bangladesh, Saber Chowdhury, who was accompanied by parliamentarians active in promoting gender equality who had participated in the 135th IPU Assembly, held in Geneva, and the Committee against Torture to discuss issues relating to gender-based violence against women. It further held an informal public meeting with the States parties to the Convention, which was attended by representatives of 71 States parties. The Committee briefed the States parties on the implementation of the Convention and the Optional Protocol thereto in the context of General Assembly resolution 68/268 on strengthening and enhancing the effective functioning of the human rights treaty body system, its engagement with UN-Women on indicator 5.1.1 and its recent work on draft general recommendations.

7. The Committee continued to benefit from country-specific information received from United Nations country teams, entities and specialized agencies, other intergovernmental organizations, national human rights institutions and non-governmental organizations (the last-mentioned coordinated by International Women’s Rights Action Watch Asia Pacific).

8. As at 18 November 2016, the closing date of the sixty-fifth session of the Committee, there were 189 States parties to the Convention and 108 States parties to the Optional Protocol. A total of 71 States had accepted the amendment to article 20 (1) of the Convention concerning the meeting time of the Committee. To bring the amendment into force, two thirds of the States parties to the Convention (currently 126 States parties) must deposit their instruments of acceptance with the Secretary-General.

countries to better understand the link between development and human rights; and its recommendations on quotas for political parties. At the sixty-fifth session, the working group focused on institutionalizing annual joint meetings between the Committee and the IPU Assembly, building the capacity of parliaments to assess their own gender sensitivity and increasing collaboration on the issues of migration and refugee flows, women and peace and security and the monitoring of the implementation of the Goals.

C. Action taken in relation to ways and means of expediting the work of the Committee

Enhancing the Committee’s working methods under article 18 of the Convention

18. At its sixty-fourth session, the Committee decided that only members having submitted comments in writing within 10 days of the receipt at the beginning of a session of draft lists of issues and questions prior to reporting prepared under the simplified reporting procedure (decision 58/II) by the pre-sessional working group, to be convened after each regular session, would be able to propose amendments for discussion during the adoption of such lists in plenary meeting at the Committee’s next regular session. It also decided that lists of issues and questions prior to reporting would be limited to a maximum of 25 paragraphs, including a standard paragraph asking States parties to provide information on the measures taken to implement the Committee’s previous concluding observations, and would not raise more than 75 issues. The Committee further decided to continue, on a permanent basis, to operate in country task forces for its constructive dialogues with States parties.

19. At its sixty-fifth session, the Committee decided, to avoid having overdue periodic reports cover only the period up to the due date, to amend the standard paragraph in its concluding observations concerning the date for the submission of the next periodic report of the State party concerned by adding the following sentence: “In case of delay, the report should cover the entire period up to the time of its submission.” It also decided, with immediate effect, to hold its biennial informal meetings with the States parties to the Convention in public meeting with live webcasting and summary record coverage.

Follow-up procedure

20. The Committee continued its work under the follow-up procedure at its sixty-fourth and sixty-fifth sessions, adopting the reports of the Rapporteur on follow-up to concluding observations and considering the follow-up reports of Algeria, Angola, Austria, Chile, Cyprus, Hungary, Kuwait, Malta, Mexico, Nepal, the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, Togo and Turkmenistan. The reports are posted on the web page of the Committee. At its sixty-fourth session, the Committee decided to limit the number of issues in the concluding observations designated by the Committee for follow-up to a maximum of four issues or subparagraphs. At its sixty-fifth session, it decided to appoint Hilary Gbedemah as Rapporteur on follow-up and Lia Nadaraia as alternate Rapporteur, both for a period of two years from 1 January 2017 to 31 December 2018. The Committee also adopted the assessment of the follow-up procedure presented by the outgoing Rapporteur on follow-up, Xiaqiao Zou, recommending that the procedure should be continued and the next assessment made at the seventy-first session, to be held in October/November 2018.

Overdue reports

21. The Committee decided that the secretariat should systematically remind States parties whose reports were five years or more overdue to submit their reports as soon as possible. As at 18 November 2016, the closing date of the sixty-fifth session, there were 12 States parties whose reports were overdue by five years or more: Belize, Cook Islands, Dominica, Kiribati, Latvia, Mozambique, Nicaragua, Saint Kitts and Nevis, Saint Lucia, San Marino, Sao Tome and Principe and Suriname. With regard to long-overdue reports, the Committee decided that, as a last resort, and failing receipt of the long-overdue reports by a specified date, it would proceed with the consideration of the implementation of the Convention in the State party in the absence of a report. In 2017, the Committee is scheduled to review the implementation of the Convention in Saint Kitts and Nevis in the absence of a report. States parties have been responsive to the reminders transmitted by the secretariat, as evidenced by the number of reports submitted and scheduled for consideration. The Committee currently has 36 reports scheduled for consideration between the sixty-sixth session (February/March 2017) and the sixty-ninth session (February/March 2018).
