I. INTRODUCTION

1. Reasons for adopting the second National Action Plan for the Implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 – Women, Peace and Security in the Republic of Serbia

The UN Security Council Resolution 1325 – Women, Peace and Security (hereinafter referred to as: UNSC Resolution 1325) is one of the most important resolutions of an international organisation in the field of peace and security policy. This Resolution, which was adopted on 31 October 2000, particularly emphasises the consequences of armed conflicts for women and girls and the importance of the role of women in peace-building and post-conflict rehabilitation of society and it is in accordance with generally accepted international political and legal documents and standards in the areas of peace, security and human rights. Therefore, the governments of the Member States of the United Nations, on the recommendation of the UN Secretary General, began developing and adopting the national plans for the implementation of the said resolution,¹ and certain communities of states, such as the European Union (hereinafter referred to as: the EU), supported the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325, while some international organisations expressed in their documents the explicit support and commitment to the goals and values of UNSC Resolution 1325, such as the Organisation for Security and Co-operation in Europe (hereinafter referred to as: OSCE) in its 2004 Action Plan for the Promotion of Gender Equality² and the North Atlantic Alliance (hereinafter referred to as: NATO) in its revised 2016 Action Plan for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 and Related Security Council Resolutions.³

At the initiative of some 30 civil society organisations (hereinafter referred to as: CSO), under the coordination of the Belgrade Fund for Political Excellence (hereinafter referred to as: BFPE), the Government of the Republic of Serbia, at the proposal of the Ministry of Defence, adopted the first National Action Plan for the Implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325

- 1 According to the Report on Open Debate held in the United Nations Security Council on 25 October 2016, on the topic of Women, Peace and Security, the number of countries that developed their Action Plans for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 by October 2016 is 63. The then UN Secretary General Ban Ki-Moon highlighted the role and importance of women in conflict prevention, peace-building processes and post-conflict rehabilitation, pointing to the fact that studies had shown that peace agreements lasted longer if women were involved in the negotiation process.

– Women, Peace and Security in the Republic of Serbia (2010-2015) (hereinafter referred to as: National Action Plan), by Conclusion 05 no. 337-9657/2010 of 23 December 2010. This Plan was implemented in the period from its publishing in the Official Gazette of the RS, No. 102/10 on 30 December 2010 to the end of 2015. In the first four years, the Plan focused on the implementation in the twelve ministries, administrations and agencies in the security system of the Republic of Serbia, but in 2015, on the proposal of the Political Council and according to the decision of the Government, its implementation was extended to all ministries, four offices of the Government of the Republic Serbia and the Statistical Office of the Republic of Serbia.

On the basis of the dialogue on the implementation of the National Action Plan, conducted by the Political Council of the Government on 28 May 2015, organised by the Ministry of Defence and supported by the OSCE Mission to Serbia, with all the stakeholders involved in the implementation of the Plan, including civil society organisations in the Republic of Serbia, it was assessed that in the coming period it is necessary to continue with the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325, with the inclusion of a large number of stakeholders and focusing on the activities from the second National Action Plan at the local level.

2. Progress achieved in the implementation of the National Action Plan (2010–2015)

After five years of the implementation of the National Action Plan in the Republic of Serbia, the Political Council of the Government for the implementation of the National Action Plan (2010-2015) assessed that there had been a significant progress in achieving the goals of the Plan and that the conditions were created for improving the implementation of this resolution in the following five-year period. Considering the most significant results achieved in the implementation of the National Action Plan for the period from 2010 to 2015, the Political Council of the Government pointed out the following: almost all of the planned institutional bodies and mechanisms for the implementation of the Plan were established and functional, except for gender adviser to national contingent commanders in multinational operations (hereinafter referred to as: MNO);⁴ the "visibility" of women's representation in the security system, their place and role in maintaining peace and security in the Republic of Serbia was achieved; all institutional bodies for the implementation of the National Action Plan were established, as well as the majority of gender equality mechanisms envisaged by the Plan; the "measurability" of the effects of the envisaged measures and activities contained in the National Action Plan was achieved through indicators; the total representation of women in the security system increased by 4.13% (from 27.40% in 2010 to 31.53% in 2015); the total representation of women in decision making (commanding/managing) in the security system increased by 5.21% (from 14.47% in 2010 to 19.68% in 2015); the participation of women from the security system in the activities of international cooperation increased; all forms of education in military and police opened for the participation of women; a large number of activities focused on the education of staff in the security system in the field of gender equality were implemented; the initiatives were launched for amending the existing strategic and regulatory documents or for drafting new documents aimed at preventing violence against women; certain effective measures were undertaken to support women in achieving better balance between their professional and family roles; the media campaigns for the employment of women in the operational force of military and police and the admission of girls to the Military Academy, the Military High School and the Police Academy were successfully conducted; the implementation of the National Action Plan was evaluated and the cooperation was established between all stakeholders involved in the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 in the country and within the scope of international cooperation. In the period 2010-2012, women were engaged in MNO mainly within the air medical evacuation teams (medical doctors and nurses), such as in DR Congo (MONUC/MONUSCO) and as part of the Norwegian Medical Treatment Facility, and within the independent medical team (performing the duties of medical and dental technicians) in the Central African Republic and in Chad (MINURCAT). In 2012, for the first time in the history of the Serbian Armed Forces, professional female soldiers were deployed in the UN MNO in the Republic of Cyprus, and after that there have been a certain number of professional female soldiers in each new rotation of units. Also, in 2013, a female officer was engaged in a UN peacekeeping mission for the first time. The Serbian Armed Forces, in the period 2010-2015, participated in fourteen multinational operations (hereinafter referred to as: MNO), including ten under the auspices of the United Nations (hereinafter referred to as: UN): in the UN MNO in Burundi, UN MNO in East Timor, UN MNO in Chad, MNO in the Republic in Liberia – UNMIL, in the Republic of Ivory Coast – UNOCI, in DR Congo – MONUSCO, in the Republic of Cyprus – UNFICYP, in the Republic of Lebanon – UNIFIL, in the Middle East – UNTSO and in the Central African Republic – MINUSCA); and four under the auspices of the European Union (in the Republic of Somalia – EUTM Somalia and in the Gulf of Aden; EUNAVFOR Somalia – Operation ATALANTA, in the Republic of Mali – EUTM Mali and in the Central African Republic – EUFOR RCA). The total representation of women from the Ministry of Defence and the Serbian Armed Forces in MNO in 2015 was 10.06%, while the participation of the female members of the Ministry of Interior in civilian missions in 2015 was 5%, which all together accounts for a total of 7.53% of the participation of women from the Republic of Serbia in MNO in 2015.

The Republic of Serbia, which began the process of negotiations for membership of the European Union (EU), is the first non-EU country that has obtained the Gender Equality Index of the European Institute for Gender Equality (EIGE), because it is better than the European average in many domains, for example in the decision-making process, while in the process of achieving the women's work-life balance (including the women employed in the security system) it has yet to reach the European standards. Moreover, the Republic of Serbia acknowledges the fact that the EU in its documents stressed the importance of equal participation of men and women in preventing and resolving conflicts and promoting a culture of permanent and sustainable peace. Hence, a greater participation of women in the civilian and military multinational operations is particularly promoted within the framework of the Common Security and Defence Policy of the European Union (CSDP) and the Department of Peacekeeping Operations (UNDPKO). In addition, the Republic of Serbia, being a member of the OSCE and Partnership for Peace (PfP), has taken into account the fact that these international organisations consistently engage in preventing violence against women in crisis and emergency situations, as well as in promoting the participation of women in the maintenance and building of peace.

Based on the analysis of results of the implementation of the National Action Plan in public administration bodies in the period 2010-2015, the Government of the Republic of Serbia has assessed that in the forthcoming period it is necessary to continue with the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 in the Republic of Serbia, by developing a new plan that will be implemented by the end of 2020.

3. Development of the new National Action Plan

On the proposal of the Ministry of Defence, the Government of the Republic of Serbia adopted the Decision 05 No. 02 – 13886/2015 of 25 December 2015 on the establishment of the Working Group for drafting the National Action Plan, which was published in the Official Gazette of the RS, No. 109/15 of 25 December 2015 (hereinafter referred to as: the Working Group). It should be noted that representatives of public administration and local self-government bodies, academia, civil society organisations and independent male and female experts, as members of the Working Group, participated in developing the second National Action Plan on an equal footing. The Plan was developed according to the established methodology, within two workshops supported by the Standing Conference of Towns and Municipalities of Serbia and two workshops supported by the OSCE Mission to Serbia, whose results were discussed at the meetings of the Working Group, held with the professional, administrative and technical support of the Ministry of Defence. There were also public consultations and alignment of views with representatives of all stakeholders involved in the development and implementation of this Plan.

The Political Council of the Government adopted and submitted to the Working Group the Guidelines for Developing the National Action Plan for the Implementation of UN Security Council Resolution 1325 – Women, Peace and Security in the Republic of Serbia (2017-2020) in December 2015. In developing the National Action Plan, the Working Group took into account these Guidelines, but also the results of the so-called internal and external evaluation of the implementation of the National Action Plan (2010-2015) conducted by individual public administration bodies, the Multi-Sector Coordination Body of the Government, and the Institute for Inclusive Security from Washington and the OSCE, and adopted the Preliminary Idea and the Schedule for developing the National Action Plan. During the development of the Plan, numerous domestic and foreign sources of literature were consulted; it was particularly important to incorporate anti-discriminatory commitments contained in the Constitution of the Republic of Serbia and in the Law on the Prohibition of Discrimination, as well as recommendations from the 2015 Global Study on the Implementation of United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 – Preventing Conflict, Transforming Justice, Securing the Peace, the recommendations from the so-called Istanbul Convention and the recommendations from the European Parliament Resolution dated 8 October 2015 (2015/2754 RSP).

The Working Group for drafting the National Action Plan was faced with the existence of uneven gender-responsive records in certain public administration and local self-government bodies, as well as non-standardised reporting system that would allow this document to contain accurate initial values, and the target value to be achieved by the end of 2020. Therefore, the largest number of indicators defined in the document are qualitative, with a tendency to establish, in the future period through the implementation of the National Action Plan, a mechanism of gender-responsive statistics at all levels, the system of reporting and comparative analysis of data from the reports of civil society organisations, academia and the media that would lead to a higher amount of credible quantitative data. It is one of the reasons why certain "activities" in the National Action Plan are so general that may be considered "measures", whereas the aim is to substantially improve the situation in this field in the future.

It should be noted that, despite this situation, a significant contribution to the understanding of the current situation regarding the implementation of the UNSC Resolution 1325 at the local level was provided by a survey of the Faculty of International Politics and Security of the University UNION – Nikola Tesla in Belgrade, conducted on a sample of 901 respondents from 23 institutions at the level of local self-governments in the Republic of Serbia, based on which in 2016: 77.97% of the respondents at the local level are not acquainted with the content of Resolution 1325; 88.56% of the respondents are not acquainted with the National Action Plan; 88.3% of the respondents are not acquainted with the existence of the programme of rehabilitation and recovery for participants in the wars in the territory of former Yugoslavia (1991-1999); 92.6% of the respondents did not have any form of education about the UNSC Resolution 1325; there were no female mayors in any of the surveyed municipalities and there were no funds allocated for the implementation of the UNSC Resolution 1325, and there were no women in the bodies for emergency situations management and in the security councils (except in the City of Niš). However, as regards regulatory framework, it should be noted that out of 23 surveyed institutions at the local level, the City of Niš has eight regulatory acts governing the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325, Novi Sad has ten regulatory acts governing the programme of reintegration and rehabilitation of refugees and internally displaced persons, while Kosovska Mitrovica and Leposavić do not have a single act that would regulate this area, etc. The Working Group has assessed that these research findings could be expected, taking into account that the first National Action Plan was implemented in the first four years only in 12 competent bodies of public administration, and in the fifth year it was expanded to a total of 18 public administration bodies, but not to the bodies of local self-government. In addition, the results of internal and external evaluation confirmed the results of the gender analyses of analytical groups and research teams that had pointed out in their reports that the implementation of this Plan in the period 2010-2015 had not been properly supported by the media and especially by the public broadcasting services of RTV Serbia and RTV Vojvodina.

In addition, the development of the new National Action Plan takes into account the results of the evaluations of the implementation of the previous National Action Plan (2010-2015), implemented by civil society organisations, particularly the Belgrade Centre for Security Policy (hereinafter referred to as: BCSP), Women in Black, Public Policy Research Centre and others, as well as the results of research on the security of women conducted in Pirot and Novi Pazar and the results of good practice in several cities in the Republic of Serbia, particularly in the AP Vojvodina. Particularly important were the research studies of the academic community, civil society and international organisations concerning the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325, which have demonstrated the need to shift the focus of the security institutions, in the next five years, from the area of politics and administration to the operational forces (police, gendarmerie, military, customs, security guards services, etc.). It has also been assessed that the education on peace, security and gender equality should begin at the pre-school age and should be implemented in continuity and for all categories of population.

Before drafting the Plan, in the period 18-26 February 2016, as well as during the drafting process, in the period 26 April-10 June 2016, with the support of the Office for Cooperation with Civil Society, the Working Group consulted electronically the CSO about the form and content of the Plan, which was made public on the website of the Office for Cooperation with Civil Society and on the website of the Ministry of Defence. In addition, public consultations on the Draft National Action Plan were organised by the Ministry of Defence, the Ministry of Youth and Sports, the Office for Cooperation with Civil Society, the Standing Conference of Towns and Municipalities of Serbia and the OSCE Mission to Serbia in May and June 2016 in six cities in the Republic of Serbia. Public consultations included all stakeholders involved in the implementation of the Plan at the local level, including representatives of local self-governments, security system bodies, academic community, CSO and the media. Public consultations on the Draft National Action Plan took place in the following cities in Serbia: on 17 May 2016 in Niš (21 participants including 8 from CSO); on 18 May 2016 in Vranje (22 participants including 5 from CSO); on 24 May 2016 in Novi Pazar (27 participants including 12 from CSO); on 25 May 2016 in Kruševac (45 participants including 8 from CSO); on 30 May 2016 in Novi Sad (76 participants including 14 from CSO); and on 10 June 2016 in Belgrade (176 participants including 65 from CSO). The public consultation process has undoubtedly contributed to improving the quality of the document and the transparency of the drafting process. One of the results of the public consultation process is identification of regulatory insufficiencies, which significantly affects the development and implementation of this Plan. In fact, the Republic of Serbia does not have the Law on Security and the Law on Gender Equality.⁵ Therefore, the establishment of Local Security Councils and Councils for Gender Equality is the expression of political will of local self-government bodies, and not a legal obligation, which will inevitably affect the implementation of the activities envisaged in the National Action Plan for which these councils are responsible. In addition, in several cities in the Republic of Serbia it was stressed during public consultations that more women should be engaged in peacekeeping missions and in peace processes, especially on the Serbian side in the dialogue between Belgrade and Priština, in which there are no women.

After the extensive public consultations held in May and June 2016 and the alignment of views with competent public administration bodies from September 2016 to May 2017, the Ministry of Defence as proposer prepared the Proposal of Conclusion on the Adoption of the National Action Plan for the Implementation of the UN Security Council Resolution 1325 – Women, Peace and Security in the Republic of Serbia (2017 – 2020) and submitted it to the General Secretariat of the Government for adoption.

It should be noted that the National Action Plan (2010-2015) drew on the relevant international and national political, regulatory and strategic documents, as specified in the Introduction of this document, which contain the principles, standards and commitments taken into account also in the development of the National Action plan (2017-2020). They will not be repeated in the present document. In addition, due to the fact that in the period from 2010 to 2015, some new international and national documents were adopted, they were consulted in the development of the National Action Plan (Annex I), along with a large number of research studies, scientific articles and reports relating to the experience in the implementation of UNSC Resolution in the country and abroad. These documents were particularly taken into account: The Strategy of Prevention and Protection against Discrimination (2013) and the Action Plan for the Implementation of the Strategy of Prevention and Protection against Discrimination for the period 2014-2018 (2014); the National Strategy for Gender Equality for the period 2016-2020 and the Activity Plan for the Implementation of the Strategy for Gender Equality for the period 2016-2018 (2016), including a measure related to "Women and Security"; and the Council of Europe Convention on preventing and combating violence against women and domestic violence (CAHVO), which was adopted in 2011 and ratified by the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia on 31 October 2013; and Concluding observations on the combined second and third periodic report of the Republic of Serbia to the United Nations Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW/ SRB/CO/2-3, 25 July 2013).

Bearing in mind that there is an ongoing process of drafting regulatory, strategic and planning documents,⁶ which will deal with the prevention of violence against women in the family and intimate partner relationships more comprehensively, the National Action Plan (2017-2020) does not refer to the issues addressed in these documents that are being prepared, but contains activities aimed at preventing violence against women in multinational operations, in conflict and post-conflict rehabilitation of society, crisis and emergency situations, with special emphasis on preventive operation, protection and recovery of women because of the effects of modern security challenges, risks and threats that particularly affect marginalised and multiply discriminated categories of population in the Republic of Serbia and migrants.⁷

4. The National Action Plan (2017–2020)

Taking into account the specified changes, the overall goal of the National Action Plan (2017-2020) is to improve the security of women in society through an integral implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 in the Republic of Serbia in the areas of prevention, participation, protection and recovery, with greater involvement of women in maintaining peace and security at the local community level. Therefore, the structure of institutional bodies and mechanisms established during the implementation of the previous National Action Plan has been mainly kept, but, on the basis of suggestions from public consultations, the first chapter entitled Institutions was renamed into Actors because civil society organisations and individuals as actors in the implementation of the Plan cannot be called institutions. Also, based on the results of the evaluation of implementation of this Plan, some novelties have been envisaged in terms of establishing the Operational Body, a single reporting model and Focal Points for the implementation of the National Action Plan at all levels of its implementation in the next five years. More specifically, the following has been envisaged:

⁶ The Law on the Prevention of Domestic Violence was adopted at the time of drafting this Plan, and there are also plans to amend the existing National Strategy for Preventing and Combating Violence against Women in the Family and Intimate Partner Relationships (Official Gazette of the RS, No. 27/2011).

- (1) Political Council of the Government for implementation of the National Action Plan should remain the highest political body consisting of state secretaries, President of the Coordination Body for Gender Equality, Director of the Office for Human and Minority Rights and managers of gender equality mechanisms in the Republic of Serbia, but it should have a smaller number of members than in the period from 2011 to 2015 (up to 11 persons) and its members should be appointed by the function they perform.
- (2) Operational Body of the Government ensures the achievement of the goals and tasks of the National Action Plan and consists of the experts from the Coordination Body for Gender Equality, whose work needs to be enhanced with the software for the automatic processing of data about the implementation of the National Action Plan and with the partnership support of all the key implementers of the activities contained in the Plan.
- (3) Commission for Monitoring the Implementation of the National Action Plan is a supervisory body established by the National Assembly of the Republic of Serbia and the Assembly of AP Vojvodina, and consists of the representatives of parliamentary groups.
- (4) Analytical groups and research teams are institutional bodies established in certain institutions in the security system to perform the functions of planning and monitoring of the implementation of the activities, conducting of gender analysis and reporting on the results of the implementation of the National Action Plan, on the basis of established indicators. At the level of local self-governments, civil society organisations, scientific and research institutions and the media, the function of planning and monitoring the implementation of activities, gender analysis and reporting will be performed by appointed individuals, i.e. Focal Points for the implementation of the National Action Plan, who can be already appointed coordinators for gender equality, focal points for the prohibition of mobbing, prohibition of discrimination or other, with the additional education on UNSC Resolution 1325.
- (5) Mechanism of gender equality "persons of trust" are persons who provide primary peer support, whose mandate and functioning are regulated by a special internal act (instruction) and whose function is further strengthened by continuous education and exchange of good practice.
- (6) Advisor for the implementation of the National Action Plan is a mechanism for mainstreaming a gender perspective in the policies and programmes of public administration and local self-government bodies, whose task is to ensure the creation of the necessary preconditions for achieving the goals of this Plan.
- (7) Gender Advisor in all civilian and military missions is a mechanism for mainstreaming a gender perspective in the security system, which is achieved through the presence of one advisor in each MNO or in case of a larger contingent, several advisers in each MNO, whereas the introduction of such an office in the practice of the Republic of Serbia is one of the tasks introduced by the National Action Plan (2017-2020), in accordance with the practice in the military and civilian missions of the United Nations and the European Union.

- (8) Independent monitoring should continue to be performed by the public as a whole, which should be provided, through the media, with information on all stages and results of the implementation of the National Action Plan (2017-2020). Monitoring of the fulfilment of the National Action Plan for the implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325, may also be performed by: the Commissioner for Protection of Equality, the Ombudsman, the Commissioner for Information of Public Importance, as well as representatives of citizen associations (civil society organisations), academic community and the media, within their scopes of work. In all stages of the independent monitoring process it is necessary to ensure the participation of relevant bodies dealing with gender equality at the provincial and local level.
- (9) Gender responsive budgeting involves the operationalization of gender equality policy through the creation of equal gender opportunities for women and men in the planning, programming, execution of budget resources and control of how the budget allocations affect the status of women and men. This mechanism has already been established in the Ministry of Defence on the basis of the National Action Plan (2010-2015), and since 2016 it has been introduced into the practice of 28 of public administration bodies, based on the Strategy for Gender Equality (2016-2020), the Instruction of the Ministry of Finance and the activities contained in the Activity Plan for the Implementation of the Strategy for Gender Equality (2016-2018) and in the National Action Plan for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 (2017-2020).

It should be noted that the National Action Plan (2017-2020) has an introduction, five thematic areas: Actors, Institutional Bodies and Mechanisms; Prevention; Participation; Protection and Recovery, and three Annexes containing the following: (1) list of international and national documents that were consulted in the preparation of the National Action Plan, (2) model of reporting and (3) list of abbreviations and acronyms used in the Plan.

The declared goals in these areas, as well as the planned activities, key implementers and partners, required resources and performance indicators are focused on improving all aspects of the security of women in society, in the next five-year period of the implementation of the National Action Plan. The budget resources required for the implementation of the activities envisaged by the National Action Plan, were clearly earmarked in the Ministry of Defence and in the Ministry of Culture and Information during the preparation of this Plan, while other public administration and local self-government bodies were invited to plan and allocate funds in accordance with the projections and possibilities within the established limit for the planned budget period. Possible donor funds can be specified and planned after the adoption of the National Action Plan (2017-2020).

In addition, the sources of verification for the implementation of the National Action Plan will be regular reports of the Political Council of the Government, which, as in the previous implementation period, will be available to the general public on the website of the Ministry of Defence, until the domain for the National Action Plan for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 has been established on the Government's website and updated by the Operational Body.

As in the previous document, any terms in the masculine gender used in the text of the National Action Plan for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 shall be interpreted to include the feminine gender as well.

By adopting the second National Action Plan for the Implementation of UNSC Resolution 1325 in the Republic of Serbia, the Government of the Republic of Serbia confirms its earlier stated intention to actively contribute to the process of building peace, stability and security, primarily in its immediate environment in the region of South-East Europe, then also in Europe through a comprehensive European integration process, and in the world through participation in multinational operations and at international conferences dedicated to peace, situation of women and security.

II. TABULAR PRESENTATION OF THE NATIONAL ACTION PLAN FOR THE IMPLEMENTATION OF UNSC RESOLUTION 1325 – WOMEN, PEACE AND SECURITY IN THE REPUBLIC OF SERBIA (2017–2020)

Model of Reporting

The model of reporting on the implementation of the National Action Plan for the period 2017-2020 was established in the process of NAP development and should be used for the preparation of regular reports by analytical groups and/or research teams in public administration bodies in the security system, and by the appointed Focal Points for the implementation of the National Action Plan in public administration and local self-government bodies.

The model of reporting is the same for all actors involved in the implementation of the Plan at the national level. Reports are submitted semi-annually to the Operational Body for the implementation of the National Action Plan, which, based on the individual reports, compiles a single national report and submits it to the Political Council of the Government for the implementation of the National Action Plan, which then submits a final report to the Government of the Republic of Serbia. After that, the reports are submitted to the commissions for the implementation of the National Action Plan of the National Assembly and the Assembly of AP Vojvodina, the Commissioner for Protection of Equality, the Ombudsman. They are also posted on the website on the Ministry of Defence to be available for the general public.

The structure of the report consists of three parts: (1) summary; (2) tabular presentation and (3) conclusions and recommendations.

More precisely, each report should include the following:

1. Summary on NAP implementation (two pages) focusing on the following topics:
 - Performed activities;
 - The most important results;
 - Key challenges and solutions;
 - Notes about the characteristic phenomena and about the funds spent in the reporting period.
2. Tabular presentation of performed activities in the reporting period (according to the tabular form of the NAP divided into five established fields of implementation in the period 2017-2020, as follows: Actors, Prevention, Participation, Protection and Recovery)

| General goal | | General result | | Indicator of the impact of NAP implementation on society | |
|------------------|--------------------|-------------------------------|---|--|-------------------------------|
| Title of chapter | | | | | |
| Number | Performed activity | Key implementers and partners | Allocated resources (allocated and spent funds) | Result indicators | Date/period of implementation |
| | | | | | |

3. Conclusions and recommendations (one-two pages)

Note: In developing the model of reporting, we have emphasised the need to create software for data updating and reporting, which would facilitate the continuous monitoring of activities but also regular and easier reporting. The software could be designed with the support of foreign donors or, if such support is not possible, a request for its creation will be sent to the Directorate for General Affairs of Republic Bodies or to the Ministry of Defence.
