

Commission on the Status of Women

CSW60

WOMEN'S EMPOWERMENT AND ITS LINK TO SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT

New York 14 – 24 March 2016

MANDATE OF THE COMMISSION

The Commission on the Status of Women (CSW), a functional commission of the United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC), is a global policy-making body dedicated exclusively to promoting gender equality and the empowerment of women. The Commission was established by ECOSOC resolution 11(II) of 21 June 1946 with a mandate to prepare recommendations on promoting women's rights in political, economic, civil, social and educational fields. The Commission is also responsible for monitoring, reviewing and appraising progress achieved and problems encountered in the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action of 1995 and of the outcomes of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly of 2000, at all levels, and to support gender mainstreaming.

Every year, representatives of Member States, United Nations entities and non-governmental organizations in consultative status with ECOSOC gather at United Nations Headquarters in New York for the Commission's annual session. Usually held for ten days in March, the session provides an opportunity to review progress towards gender equality and the empowerment of women, identify challenges, set global standards and norms and formulate policies to promote gender equality and women's empowerment worldwide. The session is also a key opportunity for policy makers, advocates, researchers and activists to network and strategize, mobilize and plan new initiatives and actions to further the cause of gender equality and women's empowerment.

PROGRAMME OF WORK AND WORKING METHODS

The Commission's annual programme of work and its working methods are set out in relevant ECOSOC resolutions. The current working methods call for a thematic approach, and determine the inter-active nature of the session, the format of the outcomes and the participation of non-governmental organizations (see ECOSOC resolution 2015/6).

SIXTIETH SESSION (2016)

The sixtieth session of the Commission will take place from 14 to 24 March 2016. The Commission will address as its priority theme 'Women's empowerment and its link to sustainable development'. In addition, it will evaluate progress in the implementation of the agreed conclusions from the fifty-seventh session (2013) on 'The elimination and prevention of all forms of violence against women and girls'. The Commission will also discuss its multi-year programme of work. The nine-day session will include a ministerial segment with round tables and other high level interactive dialogues, a general discussion, as well as interactive dialogues and panel discussions. Stakeholders will organize many side events to draw attention to critical aspects of the work on gender equality. Details are available at: <http://www.unwomen.org/en/csw/csw60-2016>.

OUTCOMES

Agreed conclusions on the priority theme

These are the Commission's principal outcome on the priority theme. They are negotiated by all Member States, are short and succinct, and identify gaps and challenges in the implementation of previous commitments and make action-oriented recommendations for all States, relevant intergovernmental bodies, mechanisms and entities of the United Nations system and other relevant stakeholders. They aim to accelerate implementation and are widely disseminated to the public so as to encourage follow up action (resolution 2015/6).

Other outcomes

The Commission usually adopts a small number of resolutions on different topics. In addition, summaries by the Chair of the Commission of high-level round tables and interactive dialogues highlight key issues discussed, including recommendations for further action. These summaries are not negotiated.

The Commission will consider a number of reports prepared by UN Women, including a report on the priority theme and a report on progress made on the review theme at national level. THE ROLE OF UN WOMEN

UN Women is the United Nations organization dedicated to gender equality and the empowerment of women. A global champion for women and girls, UN Women was established to accelerate progress on meeting their needs worldwide. UN Women supports United Nations Member States as they set global standards for achieving gender equality, and works with governments and civil society to design laws, policies, programmes and services needed to implement these standards. It stands behind women's equal participation in all aspects of life, focusing on five priority areas: increasing women's leadership and participation; ending violence against women; engaging women in all aspects of peace and security processes; enhancing women's economic empowerment; and making gender equality central to national development planning and budgeting. UN Women also coordinates and promotes the United Nations system's work in advancing gender equality.

UN Women serves as the substantive Secretariat of the Commission and in that capacity, supports all aspects of the Commission's work. UN Women prepares the evidence-base, policy analysis and recommendations that underpin the Commission's deliberations on the themes selected for each session, as well as for negotiated outcomes. and forge consensus around the topics under consideration. The Entity also facilitates the participation of civil society representatives in the Commission's sessions.

In the lead-up to CSW60, UN Women convened an expert group meeting on 'Women's empowerment and its link to sustainable development' from 1 to 4 November, and a civil society dialogue on 23-24 November 2015.
